

BOUQUETS THROWN AT COMMISSIONER WEST

Brightwood Citizens Sing His Praise.

IS HELD IN HIGH ESTEEM

Louis P. Shoemaker Makes Address Before Citizens' Association of Which Mr. West is Guest.

That the appointment of Henry L. West as a District Commissioner met with the hearty approval of the residents of Brightwood was clearly indicated at the last meeting of the Citizens' Association of that suburb. Mr. West was the guest of honor at a reception following the business session of the association, and it was while greeting the new Commissioner that the members, besides a number of specially invited speakers, took the opportunity of expressing the high esteem in which he is held by the organization.

Mr. West was introduced by Louis P. Shoemaker, the president, who made an address, in which he complimented the Commissioner on his appointment. He said:

"No reflection is intended upon individual members who have heretofore composed the Board of Commissioners for the District of Columbia when I venture the assertion that the present Board, as such, is more identified and to a greater extent personally acquainted with the people of the District and familiar with their needs and necessities. For this reason we expect better results in behalf of our taxpayers."

"You have not been invited to be present at this regular meeting of the Brightwood Citizens' Association as a mere act of courtesy or compliment. This, of course, we cheerfully extend as well as a hearty welcome."

"The members of this association have indulged their practice of inviting men of prominence in business as well as official life, and therefore I am gratified to have you present. It is important that you should be here; important to you, important to us, and to the community generally, because you will meet our people, who are your constituents, and we will thus familiarize you with our necessities."

To this Mr. West responded in a short address, expressing his appreciation for the reception, and giving a brief outline of what his policy would be while in office. He said that it was his earnest desire to place himself in harmony with the wants of the association and the District of Columbia in general. He complimented the various citizens' associations on their efforts to improve the city, and declared he would do all in his power to have the organizations mutually helpful.

Mr. West said that he was not in sympathy with the assertion that members of Congress have not the interests of the District at heart, contending that the various committees are constantly showing their desire to benefit Washington, and its residents by making appropriations for improvements. He also said that he did not believe the District needed the bond issue, so much as the proposed appropriation of $10,000,000, the Government's half to be expended for improvements. This appropriation, he said, should not be considered as current expenditures.

With the passage of the appropriation bill, the Commissioner stated, the District of Columbia would secure an improved police force, besides having a number of other needs granted. He expressed his opinion that Washington was destined to be the most beautiful community in the world. In closing, Mr. West pledged himself to the faithful performance of his duties.

Among the others who spoke at the meeting were Judge C. S. Bundy, Creed M. Fulton, Benjamin Coleman, Alphonso Hart, and Mr. Yoder. Judge Ashley M. Gould was present at the reception, but was forced to leave before making an address.

Dr. John W. Foster, ex-Secretary of State, will on Monday afternoon deliver before the School of Comparative Jurisprudence and Diplomacy of Columbian University a lecture on "The Results of the Spanish War of 1898 in the Orient," in which he will review the steps which brought about the acquisition of the Philippines, the dispatch from the islands of a division of the American Army to China, the cause of the Boxer movement, the siege and relief of the legation at Peking, the negotiations of the peace with China, and the present status of the United States in the Orient. The lecture will be delivered in University Hall, Fifteenth and H Streets, and will be open to the friends of the university by free tickets, obtainable in the secretary's office.

DIVORCE MADE EASY BY "SOBRIETY" ACT

New License Law Makes Business for the Magistrates in England.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The new "sobriety," or licensing act, continues to be by far the greatest topic of popular discussion in England.

Although it has been in operation for only ten days it has already furnished more magisterial decisions depriving incontinent drinkers of freedom of action than all the temperance enactments of the past generation.

Cases which have come up in various parts of the country show that the scope of the new law is by no means confined to submerged wasters of the poorest class who provide most of the daily quota of drunks in the police courts.

Its power to relax the strictness of the English marriage law promises, in a certain sense, to Americanize the social system here.

In this country even such modified relief as a judicial separation of husband and wife has hitherto been most difficult to obtain. It was necessary to prove desertion for two years or substantial physical acts of cruelty or misconduct in order that the woman should be allowed a separation.

In the case of the husband he could obtain a divorce for misconduct, and he would have to prove either of the other offences—desertion or cruelty—before he could obtain a separation. A domestic situation arising from habitual drunkenness did not constitute grounds on which the divorce court could act.

The new act has equipped the police courts so that they can deal with the matter summarily. This means the widening of the opportunities for the release of husband and wife and the saving of hundreds of dollars to the applicants.

A magistrate in West London yesterday, after an hour's hearing, signed an order of judicial separation to Sir Charles Lawson which could not be obtained in any court in the country until the new act became a law, because, though Lady Lawson had been fined for being drunk on the street, and had gone completely beyond the control of her friends, yet she had not committed any matrimonial offences which the divorce court recognizes.

The provision of the act which aims at preventing a convicted drunkard from obtaining liquor in a saloon is likely to prove hard to enforce, owing to the difficulty of identification.

A leading metropolitan magistrate said in an interview yesterday, in speaking of the new law, that in his opinion no legislation could make the country sober, but the people were rapidly getting much more temperate in their habits. The new act would help to clear the streets of drunken people, and the rarity of the spectacle would make the public less tolerant toward the drinking habit.

What struck him most was the large increase of drunkenness among women of the lower classes. The higher wages received by their husbands caused less necessity of looking after the children, who are able to go to school all day, and limited their household cares, for the reason that they could get a hasty dinner at a cook-shop. All this contributed to the deplorable habit of drunkenness.

He said he was prepared to believe that there was some quiet police corruption in London. If a special force of temperance policemen in plain clothes whose districts were frequently changed were to visit saloons regularly there would be more summonses for permitting drunkenness, as the new act throws the onus of proof on the publican that he tried to prevent drunkenness.

This magistrate believes that the act will be a very useful experiment. He says that really the best legislation would be to empower their friends to take proceedings against helpless inebriates irrespective of their willingness to be put under restraint. Both the past and present archbishops of Canterbury took active parts in framing the bills which were introduced and passed by the Conservative government, although the temperance organizations in the country are active Liberal partisans.

ADDITIONAL CLERKS FOR REGISTRY DIVISION

Postoffice Employees Enter Vigorous Complaint Against Long Hours and Alleged Harsh Treatment.

Postmaster Merritt, of the city postoffice, yesterday made requisition on the Postoffice Department for six additional clerks for the registry division. The action resulted from a concerted move on the part of the fifty-six clerks now in that division, who entered a protest to Superintendent G. M. Hunt, who is in charge.

They complained that the superintendent had worked them overtime for the past six weeks and refused to allow them but two Sundays off duty in two months. Their complaints were presented to Superintendent Hunt by a committee of three. Complaints of harsh treatment were also made to the superintendent, who denied this when confronted by the committee. One clerk, who has been in the division for some years and who requested his name be not disclosed, said last night:

"Superintendent Hunt has been working us two and three hours overtime for the past six weeks. When the day men go off duty, they scarcely get home before they are sent for and ordered back to the office to assist the night force. The night men have been treated the same way. On Friday they worked until noon before they were permitted to go home for a little sleep."

"We have protested against this treatment, but our remonstrances have been received with harsh and sometimes profane words. Friday, we decided to stand it no longer and at the peril of dismissal a committee of three waited on the superintendent and demanded assistance in the work. At first he refused to listen, but later he informed the committee that he would take the matter up with Postmaster Merritt."

When asked about the complaints made by the registry employees, Postmaster Merritt said to a Times reporter: "I have heard nothing of such complaints. Superintendent Hunt asked me this morning to be given more assistance, as the men were overworked. I immediately made requisition on the Postoffice Department for six additional clerks. As to the clerks being compelled to work overtime, that is all news to me."

"There could not possibly be any shielding of the hours the clerks work, for a time clock is used in that department as in all others. The correct time of their arrival and departure is kept by the superintendent and the clock always tells the truth. The employees of the postoffice are required to work eight hours a day. Those in the Postoffice Department work only six. That naturally causes a little friction and I feel sure this must be the cause of the trouble."

The postmaster, however, will take up the complaints of the clerks tomorrow and carefully investigate them. Superintendent Hunt has held the position for some years and he was formerly a clerk in the division, but since that time served in the Government postal service in Cuba and in China.

COLLEGE MEN PRESS FOR FOREST RESERVE

Delegation Brings Petition Urging Senate's Bill.

A delegation representing the Appalachian Forestry Reserve Association is in the city to petition the House to pass the bill introduced in the Senate and passed by that body for a forest reserve. The delegation consists of Dr. I. C. White, of West Virginia University; Prof. William B. Clark, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.; Prof. J. A. Holmes, of North Carolina University; Prof. T. C. Chamberlain, of Chicago University; and Prof. I. C. Russell, of Chicago. They are aided in the work here by Prof. W. J. McGee and Prof. Emerson, of the United States Geological Survey.

A memorial has been prepared and will be presented to Speaker Henderson on Monday. The association is much interested in the preservation of Appalachian forests and the bill recently passed by the Senate has given them renewed confidence in their fight in the House. A portion of the House is opposed to the bill and for that reason the delegation was appointed.

GOVERNMENT DISPLAY AT ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION

Effort To Be Made to Make It a Notable One.

Active means are being taken by the Government and Congress toward making a display at the coming St. Louis Exposition that will be in keeping with the important part which the National Government should take. There are several bills in Congress already with reference to the exposition and the House Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions is busily engaged in the work of their prosecution.

Yesterday a hearing was held on the bill appropriating the sum of $100,000 for a display of the work of the Government Agricultural stations. The Department of Agriculture contemplates making the greatest showing possible, believing the public cannot be better informed as to the methods employed and results attained than by such means.

At the hearing yesterday Prof. Jordan, of New York, and Prof. Hays, of Minnesota, were heard. They explained the uses to which the appropriation is to be put, and went into details as to the benefits it is expected will be derived from the display. An effort will probably be made to get the bill before the House at the present session and to have it passed if possible.

Another sign of the approaching exposition was noted at the Capitol in the past week. Men equipped with photographic outfits secured views of the building and its employees at work. These will be properly framed and will form a prominent part in the Government's display.

SHOWMAN VENTS ANGER OVER CRUELTY CHARGE

Hagenbeck's Manager Denies Cruelty to Trained Pig.

C. L. Williams, the manager of the Carl Hagenbeck Trained Animal Show which has been running at the Lafayette Theater, is indignant over his arrest yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by Officer Rabbitt, of the Humane Society, charging him with cruelty to animals.

It was on Thursday night that the little clown pig, whose duty it is to ride in a doll carriage and run under a chair, thereby turning it over, got caught under the falling chair. It was seen at the time that the pig's leg was slightly hurt, but Lill Kerslake, the trainer of the Hagenbeck pigs, after an examination, allowed the porcine clown to continue his act.

The pig was still limping Friday night. Humane Officer Rabbitt, who was present, thought that the pig was being abused, and swore out a warrant yesterday against Carl Hagenbeck, in whose name the show is run, charging him with cruelty to animals.

This warrant was served on Mr. Williams yesterday afternoon at about 2:30 o'clock, while the matinee was in progress. He was arraigned in the Police Court. His hearing was set for Monday. Mr. Williams deposited collateral for his appearance at that time.

"This is where the greatest hardship comes in," said Mr. Williams to a representative of The Times. "You see we are billed to open in Philadelphia on Monday night. I should not have so much minded had the incident occurred on Friday, as it would not have delayed my getting out of town."

"As to the charge itself, it is absurd. No one is kinder to animals than the man who makes his living from them. A whip is never used on an animal in our aggregation, save to crack one on the stage as a signal for such and such a turn. Mr. Kerslake thinks more of his pigs than he does of himself. That pig's leg was merely bruised."

"I do not think that Mr. Rabbitt dealt fairly by me. This charge is very humiliating to me, and is also certain to do me much harm in a business way, because of the mistaken sentiment it will create."

"What are you going to do?" he was asked.

"What can I do but stay over, go to court, and pay my fine?" was the reply.

Mr. Williams was informed that he would be reported as saying that he would sue the Humane Society for damages for false arrest and defamation of character. He denied this, but declined to commit himself.

Considerable interest will attach to the hearing of this case in the Police Court tomorrow.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW FOR NEW YORKERS

Machines of Every Description to Be Exhibited.

When the automobile show opens in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday, January 17, the public will have an opportunity of seeing the wonderful improvements in the design and construction of automobiles that have been made by American manufacturers during the past year. They have made such giant strides, that, whereas two years ago we were five years behind France, the American product now compares favorably with any in the world, and the makers predict that ere another year goes by the United States will lead every other country in automobile designing, automobile building, and automobile driving.

So far as interest is concerned, no industrial exhibition since the time of the bicycle boom has attracted so much attention. Not an inch of space remains to be taken in the big amphitheater, even the basement having been decorated and arranged for the reception of American and of foreign power-driven machines.

Although considerable attention has been given to the development of speed in automobiles, the Madison Square Garden Show will prove that the makers have not been unmindful of general appearance and comfort. Graceful cars, handsomely upholstered and fitted with powerful engines, will be seen on every hand, and it will indeed be a most exacting motorist who cannot find something in the big show to suit his fancy. The affair opens next Saturday night, and will continue until the following Saturday. It is held under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America, the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers, and the Madison Square Garden Company, with Frank W. Sanger as manager. The admission is 50 cents and tradesmen are admitted free up to 1 o'clock each day upon presentation of their business cards.

CANADIAN DIVINE WILL SPEAK BEFORE Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. James Logan Gordon, of Toronto, pastor of the largest Congregational church in Canada, will deliver the address of the day at the big meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association at the Lafayette Opera House this afternoon. Mr. Gordon is considered one of the foremost of the Canadian divines, having successfully filled the pulpit made vacant several years ago by the death of Rev. Morgan Wood.

The doors will be opened this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and the Chicago Glee Club, that filled over 280 successful engagements last year, will start the music fifteen minutes later. These meetings of the Y. M. C. A. are growing in interest until the capacity of the theater is being tested. This city now holds the record for uniform large attendance at these Sunday meetings.

WITHOUT AUTHORITY TO CLOSE CERTAIN STREETS

Bill Submitted to Commissioners by Mr. Moody for Their Approval.

The District Commissioners have received a communication from the Secretary of the Navy, enclosing a letter from the chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs of the House of Representatives, requesting the approval of the draft of a bill for closing certain streets within the area to be taken for the enlargement of the navy yard. In a report on the subject submitted by the Commissioners, the committee was informed that the municipal authorities were without authority to issue a permit for the closing of these streets, that power resting with Congress.

W. H. Moody, secretary of the committee, in the communication referred to, calls attention to the act of Congress making an appropriation of $100,000 for the purchase of property adjacent to the navy yard for its enlargement. He says the purchase has now been practically completed. It includes all the private property lying between the south building line of M Street south and the Eastern Branch, and between the east building line of Fourth Street and the west wall of the navy yard. This area includes portions of Canal, Fifth and N Streets and Georgia Avenue, and the triangular reservations known as 249 and 250, which, Mr. Moody says, it is necessary to close to enable the department to utilize the property acquired. He adds that it is essential that the title to the streets and reservations should also be in the department, in order that it may exercise exclusive control over the same.

The draft of the bill is submitted, and the Commissioners are requested to consider and approve the same with a view to its being included in the naval appropriations bill for the next fiscal year. The bill provides for the closing of the portions of the streets named, and the transfer of title to the Navy Department.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT INVITED TO PACIFIC COAST

Takes Matter Under Advisement and Will Answer Later.

The President's Pacific Coast trip was brought to the fore when Senator Mitchell of Oregon called at the White House yesterday to speak of the hospitality awaiting the Chief Magistrate when that State is reached on his travels. The Senator introduced a Major William Hancock Clark, grandson of the explorer of that section of the United States, and Col. W. S. Scott, vice president of the Lewis and Clark Exposition Company.

The centennial to commemorate these pioneers and their work, will be opened May 1, 1905, but the beginning of the exposition work will take place next May. It is desired to have the President attend the exercises and turn the first spadeful of ground on Mount Hood, at the spot from which Clark got his first view of the site of the present city of Portland.

Colonel Scott told of some of the preliminary work to make the centennial a success, and the President showed his interest in the plans and the development of the whole Western country opened up by the Lewis and Clark expeditions. Although the date is too far in advance to make any definite announcement now, it is believed that the President will attend the ceremonies.

"BACK TO THE RAILROAD; THERE WILL BE NO STRIKE"

Western Lines Will Probably Compromise With Men.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—As a result of the conference of general managers of Western railways centering in Chicago, held here yesterday, it is declared there will be no strikes upon the various roads.

It is not believed the demands of the trainmen, conductors, engineers and firemen will be met, but it is expected they will be compromised. The managers realize the determined attitude of the railway employees generally and their policy will be to conciliate, not to antagonize.

General Superintendent Barrett, of the Chicago and Alton, who returned to the city yesterday, said:

"There will be no strike of the locomotive firemen on the Alton. Their demands will be met."

"TIDINGS OF PEACE."

The song service, including the rendition of the cantata, "Tidings of Peace," that proved a feature of the Christmas services at the Church of the Redeemer, Eighth Street, near Grant Avenue northwest, will be repeated this evening. The chorus of thirty voices will be assisted by a number of local vocalists.
